MOTION TO INTERVENE BY THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

AND NOW, comes Attorney General David W. Sunday, Jr., by and through counsel and on behalf of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and moves this Honorable Court to grant intervention for purposes of seeking a stay pending appeal of this Court’s Order dated March 31, 2025, (see ECF 439), and defending the constitutionality of Pennsylvania’s Election Code on appeal. In support of this motion, undersigned counsel avers as follows:

1. Proposed Intervenor is the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, represented by its chief law officer, the Attorney General. PA. CONST. art. IV § 1. Pursuant to the Commonwealth Attorneys Act, the Attorney General is tasked with “uphold[ing] and defend[ing] the constitutionality of all statutes.” 71 P.S. § 732–204(a)(3); see also Synthes USA HQ, Inc. v. Commonwealth, 289 A.3d 846, 855–56 (Pa. 2023) (summarizing constitutional and statutory provisions related to Attorney General).

2. By memorandum and order dated March 31, 2025, this Court determined that enforcement of a command within the Pennsylvania Election Code—that absentee and mail-in voters must “fill out, date, and sign” outer return envelopes for their ballots to be counted, see 25 P.S. §§ 3146.6(a); 3150.16(a) (emphasis added)—is unconstitutional. (See ECF 438, 439).<sup>1</sup> It thus granted Plaintiffs’ motion for summary judgment on that question. (See ECF 287).

3. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 24(a)(1) provides that “[o]n timely motion, [a] court must permit anyone to intervene” who has been afforded “an unconditional right to intervene by a federal statute.”

4. An unconditional right exists here. Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2403, in a suit “to which a State or any agency, officer, or employee thereof is not a party,” and in which “the constitutionality of any statute affecting the public interest is drawn in question,” courts shall “permit the State to intervene ... for argument on the question of constitutionality,” and the State “shall ... have all the rights of a party.”

5. While the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and one of its agencies were parties to a separate and simultaneously-filed suit on this court’s docket, see Pennsylvania State Conf. of NAACP v. Schmidt, No. 1:22-CV-339 (NAACP), rev’d sub nom. Pennsylvania State Conf. of NAACP v. Sec’y, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, 97 F.4th 120 (3d Cir. 2024), cert. denied No. 24–363, 2025 WL 247452 (Jan. 21, 2025), none are parties here.

6. This Court nonetheless notified the Commonwealth of the constitutional question at issue pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 5.1 on June 18, 2024. (See ECF 383). At that stage, the Commonwealth did not seek intervention.<sup>2</sup>

7. The Commonwealth recognizes that this case has proceeded to final judgment. For purposes of intervention, however, “[t]imeliness is to be determined from all the circumstances,”<sup>3</sup> and “the point to which [a] suit has progressed is ... not solely dispositive.” NAACP v. New York, 413 U.S. 345, 365–66 (1977).

<sup>2</sup> On January 21, 2025, David W. Sunday, Jr., began serving as the Attorney General of Pennsylvania, succeeding Michelle A. Henry.

<sup>3</sup> The Third Circuit has stated “all the circumstances” include “(1) the stage of the proceeding; (2) the prejudice that delay may cause the parties; and (3) the reason for the delay.” Mountain Top Condo. Ass’n v. Dave Stabbert Master Builder, Inc., 72 F.3d 361, 369 (3d Cir. 1995).

8. In general, a motion to intervene is timely if it is made “as soon as it bec[omes] clear” that a party’s interests “would no longer be protected” by existing parties within the case. United Airlines, Inc. v. McDonald, 432 U.S. 385, 394 (1977).

9. The United States Supreme Court’s holding in Cameron v. EMW Woman’s Surgery Center, P.S.C., 595 U.S. 267 (2022), is instructive. There, the Attorney General of Kentucky sought leave to intervene two days after learning that another state entity would no longer defend the constitutionality of a statute regulating abortion. See id. at 273. After a panel of the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals denied that motion as untimely, the High Court reversed, explaining that “[t]he attorney general’s need to seek intervention did not arise until the secretary ceased defending the law,” and that timeliness “should be assessed in relation to that point in time.” Id. at 280.

10. The Cameron Court emphasized that a state “clearly has a legitimate interest in the continued enforceability of its own statutes,” reiterated that federal courts must “respect ... the place of the [s]tates in our federal system,” and cautioned that “a [s]tate’s opportunity to defend its laws in federal court should not be lightly cut off.” Id. at 277 (quoting Maine v. Taylor, 477 U.S. 131, 137 (1986); Arizonans for Official English v. Arizona, 520 U.S. 43, 75 (1997) (internal quotations omitted)).

11. Following this Court’s March 31 Order, Defendant-Intervenors the Republican National Committee, the National Republican Congressional Committee, and the Republican Party of Pennsylvania (hereinafter, Republican Defendant-Intervenors) filed a notice of appeal. (See ECF 441, 442).

12. Critically, though, no party has sought a stay of this Court’s order pending that appeal.

- a. On April 2, 2025, Intervenor-Defendants the Republican National Committee, National Republican Congressional Committee, and the Republican Party of Pennsylvania informed the Office of Attorney General that they would not seek a stay pending appeal.
- b. On April 11, 2025, Defendant Berks County Board of Elections informed the Office of Attorney General that it would not seek a stay pending appeal.
- c. On April 12, 2025, Defendants York County Board of Elections and Lancaster County Board of Elections informed the Office of Attorney General that they were disinclined to seek a stay pending appeal.
- d. No other named Defendant has sought a stay pending appeal.

13. A stay pending appeal is essential to guarding the Commonwealth’s sovereign interests. The failure of existing parties to request the same makes it clear that the Commonwealth’s interests will “no longer be protected.” McDonald, 432

U.S. at 394. Should this Court allow intervention, the Attorney General will demonstrate as follows:

- a. Primary elections throughout the Commonwealth are scheduled to take place on May 20, 2025.<sup>4</sup>
- b. The Commonwealth’s proposed appeal has a reasonable possibility of success in light of binding precedent. See In re Revel AC, Inc., 802 F.3d 558, 571 (3d Cir. 2015) (setting forth standard for first factor of stay analysis); see also Mazo v. New Jersey Sec’y of State, 54 F.4th 124, 138–39 (3d Cir. 2022) (describing when the Anderson-Burdick framework “[c]ertainly ... does not apply”); Biener v. Calio, 361 F.3d 206, 214 (3d Cir. 2004) (declining to apply Anderson-Burdick where no First Amendment or equal protection interests were implicated).
- c. Absent a stay, the Commonwealth will suffer irreparable harm to its sovereign interests in the form of being “barr[ed]” from “conducting this year’s election pursuant to a statute enacted by the Legislature.” Abbott v. Perez, 585 U.S. 579, 602 (2018).

<sup>4</sup> See Upcoming Elections (last accessed Apr. 15, 2025), available at <https://www.pa.gov/agencies/vote/elections/upcoming-elections.html>. The last day to request a mail-in or absentee ballot is one week beforehand, on May 13. See id.

d. The equities favor a stay, which would serve to promote confidence in the electoral system and prevent unnecessary voter confusion. See, e.g., Republican Nat’l Comm. v. Democratic Nat’l Comm., 589 U.S. 423, 424 (2020) (“[L]ower federal courts should ordinarily not alter the election rules on the eve of an election.”); Purcell v. Gonzalez, 549 U.S. 1, 4 (2006). Considering Pennsylvania’s decentralized system for running elections and Act 77’s nonseverability provision arguably being activated, see Applewhite v. Commonwealth, No. 330 M.D. 2012, 2014 WL 184988, at *39 (Pa. Cmwlth. Jan. 17, 2024) (noting that elections are administered by 67 county boards of elections); Baxter v. Philadelphia Bd. of Elections, No. 1305 C.D. 2024, 2024 WL 4614689, at *18 (Pa. Cmwlth. Oct. 30, 2024) (discussing severability), these risks are particularly heightened in this case.

14. In the alternative, should this Court determine that the Commonwealth is not permitted to intervene as of right, permissive intervention is appropriate. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 24(b). Permissive intervention allows “anyone to intervene who ... has a claim or defense that shares with the main action a common question of law or fact.” Id. (b)(1)(B).

15. Relative to intervention as of right, courts wield “broader discretion” in evaluating such requests, but “must consider whether the intervention will unduly delay or prejudice the adjudication of the original parties’ rights.” United States v. Territory of Virgin Islands 748 F.3d 514, 524 (3d Cir. 2014) (quoting Fed. R. Civ. P. 24(b)(3) (internal quotations omitted)); see also Kleissler v. U.S. Forest Serv., 157 F.3d 964, 969 (3d Cir. 1998) (noting a “policy preference which, as a matter of judicial economy, favors intervention over subsequent collateral attacks”).

16. As noted supra, the Attorney General is tasked with “uphold[ing] and defend[ing] the constitutionality of all statutes,” in order “to prevent their suspension or abrogation in the absence of a controlling decision by a court of competent jurisdiction.” 71 P.S. § 732–204(a)(3). The Attorney General thus has a “claim” that “shares ... a common question of law” with this action. Fed. R. Civ. P. 24(b)(1)(B).

17. Granting the Commonwealth intervention for purposes of seeking a stay pending appeal and offering appellate argument will not “unduly delay or prejudice the adjudication of the original parties’ rights.” Id. (b)(3).

18. Federal courts “rightly hesitate to interfere” with democratically-enacted state laws, as “[t]here is always a public interest in prompt execution’ of the laws.” Delaware State Sportsmen Ass’n v. Del. Dep’t of Safety and Homeland Sec., 108 F.4th 194, 205 (3d Cir. 2024) (quoting Nken v. Holder, 556 U.S. 418, 434 (2009)). Indeed, principles of federalism and the separation of powers are “[t]wo clear restraints on the use of the equity power.” Id. (quoting Missouri v. Jenkins, 515 U.S. 70, 131, (1995) (Thomas, J., concurring)).

19. As discussed in the Commonwealth’s motion for a stay pending appeal and brief in support thereof, see attached hereto as exhibits, the Plaintiffs and indeed all Pennsylvanians are extremely well-positioned—after years of state and federal litigation over the declaration requirement—to understand what the Election Code requires of them and comply. Plaintiffs will not be prejudiced by the Attorney General’s participation in post-trial motions and the appellate stage of litigation.

20. Furthermore, to the extent any minor delay could be attributed to the addition of another party on appeal, concerns of federalism and separation of powers counsel in favor of permitting the Commonwealth’s chief law officer to be heard.

21. As the Third Circuit explained, one “classic maxim of equity is that it ‘assists the diligent, not the tardy.’” Delaware State Sportsmen Ass’n, 108 F.4th at 206 (quoting Sherwin & Bray 441). In this context, the Attorney General acted swiftly as soon as it became clear that the Commonwealth’s interests would “no longer be protected” by existing parties, see McDonald, 432 U.S. at 394, as they had been at earlier stages of the litigation.

22. In light of the exigent circumstances and because any notice of appeal would need to be filed by April 30, 2025, the Attorney General respectfully requests that this Court expedite its consideration of the instant motion.

WHEREFORE, the Commonwealth respectfully requests that this Honorable Court enter an order allowing it to intervene in this matter as of right or, in the alternative, to intervene by permission.

Respectfully submitted,
